DETAILED ACTION

Applicants' arguments, filed 07/03/2008, have been fully considered. Rejections and/or objections not reiterated from previous office actions are hereby withdrawn. The following rejections and/or objections are either reiterated or newly applied. They constitute the complete set presently being applied to the instant application.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112 - Indefiniteness

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 6 and 12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 6 and 12 recites the limitation "said patient is a human at risk of developing" prostate cancer. There is insufficient antecedent basis for this limitation in the claim. A patient who is already being treated for prostate cancer is no longer in the population of patients at risk because they already have prostate cancer.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Heath et al (US 5,668,152) in view of Comfort et al (AJP, Vol. 154, No. 1 (1999) 137-144).

Heath et al teaches working examples within the instant claims, such as working example 50-52 (columns 45-46) with favorable IC₅₀ values, for the purpose of being protein kinase C inhibitors (abstract). Graff also teaches the use of protein kinase C inhibitors for the treatment of cancers (column 12 lines 25-32).

Heath et al does not teach the compounds treating prostate cancer as a preferred embodiment.

Comfort et al teaches in prostate cancer, PKC activity was vital for the growth of androgen-independent prostate cells (page 138, about lines 15-19).

Therefore it would be obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art that the compounds of the primary reference may be used to treat specific cancers which benefit from PKC inhibition, as disclosed in the secondary reference.

It is noted that evidence was provided that proposed there are unexpected results along the AKT pathway in comparison to other compounds disclosed in the primary reference. First, recognition of additional pathways does not provide sufficient evidence to overcome the obviousness rejection where one of ordinary skill in the art would have chosen the compound of the primary reference and cancer of the secondary reference for different reasons, i.e. the protein kinase C inhibition function. Second, the evidence is directed to a property which is not instantly claimed, where there are multiple pathways which may be inhibited, thereby treating cancer.

Conclusion

No claims allowed
